

Ned Moran, Deputy Director of Intelligence and Analysis

Mr. Moran responsibilities at the Terrorism Research Center include the research and analysis of a wide range of terrorism and counterterrorism issues. Specifically, Mr. Moran focuses on how terrorist groups use the Internet. In this capacity, Mr. Moran conducts cyber investigations and forensics on suspected terrorist websites. In addition, Mr. Moran conducts research and analysis on homeland security and critical infrastructure protection issues in an attempt to follow trends in cyber security issues.

Mr. Moran received an M.A. in Security Studies, with honors, from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service where he focused on Technology and National Security Policy. Mr. Moran also received his undergraduate degree from Georgetown University's College of Arts and Sciences. Between his undergraduate studies and his graduate studies, Mr. Moran spent seven years working for software and Information Technology consulting companies. He worked on technology projects for a variety of customers including the Central Intelligence Agency, the United States Army, the National Security Agency, the Department of Homeland Security, and the Transportation Security Agency.